Spellings for this week (How did you get on with last week's spellings?) The most common way to write the "r" phoneme (sound) at the start of a word is the letter "r".   However, in some words which can be traced back hundreds of years, the "r" sound at the start of a word is spelt "wr". This is how the words used to be pronounced - over the centuries people slowly stopped pronouncing the letters, but the spelling stuck.

Make yourself a chart like we use in school for our weekly spellings.
