

Spelling There are four ways of spelling the "l" sound at the end of a word. The most common spelling is "-le", which we looked at last time.

The -el spelling is much less common than -le. It is used after m, n, r, v, w and (more often than not) after s.

travel	marvel
camel	towel
tunnel	tinsel
squirrel	vowel

Task 1 Drama through Storytelling

I am sure you know the story of the Three Little Pigs. Please find a version from your storybooks at home or on "You Tube" and read it again. Now I want you to think about the story again and about acting it out while you re -tell it. Think about it in sections...

1st little pig /getting straw/building house of straw,

2nd little pig /getting sticks /building house of sticks

3rd little pig /getting bricks /building house of bricks

Then the wolf huffing and puffing at each house

Straw/sticks/brick house and what happens next.

Remember all the repeated phrases "I'll huff and I'll puff" and "no, no, not by the hair of my chinny chin chin". You could make masks or props and don't forget different voices.

Make up a whole story show for your family. They will love it!

Task 2 Character writing

Draw a picture of the Big, Bad, Wolf.

Then describe what he looks like using some powerful adjectives.

After that write about his character. By that I mean: What he is like? fierce? funny? silly? What do you think of him?

Draw a picture of one of the Little Pigs describe him and then describe his character.

Task 3 and 4 The Big Bad Wolf's story

Think about the big bad wolf in the story. What was he trying to do? How did he go about it? Was he successful?

I want you to retell the story as if you were the wolf. I want you to use the word 'I' as if you really were him and tell the story from his point of view. For example you could start your story like this:

I woke up this morning feeling particularly hungry. I rather fancied a fat little pig for breakfast. So I walked down the lane and I spied a little pig peeping out of the window of his straw house. I said.....

Please take 2 days over this and write your story very nicely, using paragraphs to help you section it out. When you have finished you can illustrate it. Enjoy this!

Task 5 A plan of the brick house

The wolf could not blow down the 3rd little pig's brick house. Draw a picture of it and then draw an inside plan. Label your plan. Where would the little pig sleep? Where would he have his dinner? Draw in the details.

Where is the fireplace? Does he have any special places or things inside his house?

Can you make a house for the pigs out of a box? Can you make the furniture to go inside the house? Use junk modelling skills with your pens, scissors and tape. How will you make his bed? Have fun! Super hard work this week Elephants!
